

TAFT ENTERS VIGOROUS DEFENSE

PRESIDENT FIRES BROADSIDE
AT COL. ROOSEVELT

Declares Former Executive Has Willfully Misrepresented Him and Distorted His Utterances—Says "Square Deal" Has Not Been Accorded—President Regrets Need for Plain Speaking.

LEAD TAFT.—Boston, April 25.—President Taft entered his vigorous defense today, abandoned his policy of silence under the attacks that Col. Theodore Roosevelt has made upon him and upon his administration, and for the first time since Mr. Roosevelt announced his candidacy, launched into a bitter denunciation of the former president.

From the time Mr. Taft entered Massachusetts and made his first speech in Springfield and shortly thereafter, he has been hounded away at Col. Roosevelt. The President spoke at a dozen speeches, many of them extended, the rest only a few words in length.

In all he made it clear that he is unalterably opposed to Mr. Roosevelt; that he saw disaster in a third term in the white house for any man; and that he did not believe Col. Roosevelt had given him a square deal.

He spoke to a good sized crowd in all the cities where he made speeches, and at the towns and villages where train stopped briefly, the people flocked around his private car and listened with close attention.

The president spoke at Springfield and Palmer, twice in Worcester, and at Natick, South Framingham and several smaller towns. In the beginning he seemed to utter his attack on Col. Roosevelt with reluctance.

"This writhes my soul," he said once.

As the day wore on, however, Mr. Taft grew more aggressive in manner, emphasized his words with gestures, and apparently laid aside any feeling of regret he may have felt at this evidence that long friendship with his former chief was broken.

His principal Boston address was delivered in the arena to a large crowd, but before retiring to his private car, he spoke briefly to an "overflow" in Symphony Hall. His speech in the arena was delivered from manuscript, prepared during the last few days in Washington, carefully gone over by members of his cabinet, and containing a detailed answer to many of Mr. Roosevelt's charges.

Boston, April 25.—President Taft to night cast aside his policy of avoiding personalities in his campaign for re-nomination and devoted his entire speech to an attack upon Col. Roosevelt and a defense of himself and his administration against charges Col. Roosevelt recently has made on the stump.

Mr. Taft's speech bristled with counter charges against his predecessor in the white house. He declared that Mr. Roosevelt willfully misrepresented him, had falsely distorted some of his public utterances, had failed to live up to his policy of a square deal and had violated a solemn promise to the American people not to be a candidate for a third term.

"That promise and his treatment of it," said Mr. Taft, "only threw an informing light on the value that ought now be attached to any promise of this kind he may make for the future."

Declaring that Mr. Roosevelt "ought not to be selected as a candidate of any party," Mr. Taft said that the former president might now be paving the way, if successful, in the present campaign, to remain the chief executive of the nation for as many terms as his natural life would permit.

"It is necessary now to the government, why not later?" asked the president, and continued:

"One who so lightly regards constitutional principles, and especially the independence of the judiciary, one who is so naturally so impatient of legal restraints and of due legal procedure, and who has so misunderstood what liberty regulated by law is, could not safely be trusted with the successful administration of the government, but I say it with the full conviction of its truth."

Calling Changes Vague.—Mr. Taft referred to some of Mr. Roosevelt's charges against him as the "loose and vague indictment of one who does not know and who depends only upon second hand information for his statements."

The president said that his speech tonight was one of the most painful duties of his life, that it was in response to an obligation that he owed the Republican party which selected him as its candidate, and to the American people who elected him president.

"It grows," he said, "out of a phase of national politics and national life that I believe to be unprecedented in our history. So unusual is the exigency that the ordinary rules of propriety that limit addresses must be laid aside and the cold, naked truth must be stated in such a way that it shall serve as a warning to the people of the United States."

Mr. Taft said that Col. Roosevelt's Columbus speech, accepted as his platform, sent a thrill of alarm through all the members of this community. Mr. Roosevelt said that if the nomination were to come to him he must minimize the importance of this "charter of democracy" and must find some other issue upon which to succeed. Without giving up the principles announced in his Columbus address, the president said Mr. Roosevelt relegated them to an incidental place and changed his campaign to one of criticism of Taft and the Taft administration.

Replies to Eleven Points.

One by one, the president took up eleven charges made against him by Col. Roosevelt and sought to refute them. In two instances he quoted from correspondence between himself and Col. Roosevelt, and said he was prepared to make other letters public if Mr. Roosevelt should desire.

"By excerpts from my speeches," Mr. Roosevelt has sought to show and has charged that I am one who has publicly announced that I am in favor of an aristocracy of political bosses, and that I am backed with political bosses in seeking my re-nomination. He charges that the language of the government is being shamelessly used to secure my re-nomination, and that in the conventions and primaries which have been held, fraud and violence have been systematically used to defeat the will of the people and to secure delegates for me. He says that I am not a progressive, but a reactionary; that I was nominated by progressives, and those who opposed me for nomination; and he intimates that I have not the spirit of the progressive, or the imagination, or the clear headed purpose essential to the makeup of such a person. He says that I am a friend of the interests and an upholder of special privilege, and that a vote for me is a vote for the interests, and against the people. He minimizes and flouts the importance of the laws enacted and the executive action taken during my administration.

"If in this contest there were at stake only my own reputation or the satisfaction of my own ambition, I would without the slightest qualm and without care as to the result, continue my silence under these unjust attacks. I would do so because of the personal relations that have existed between Mr. Roosevelt and me, my debt of gratitude to him, and my inclination, because of the office."

REPORT IS NONSENSE

So Declares Col. Roosevelt in Answer to Taft's Attack Relative to Harvester Co.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., April 25.—"The talk about the suppression of the report is nonsense," Col. Roosevelt said tonight in a statement setting forth his connection with the famous national Harvester company case. Col. Roosevelt asserted that a meeting with his cabinet at war in Mr. Taft was present, it was decided that the bureau of corporations be instructed to complete its investigation of the Harvester company before any suits were instituted, following the usual course of procedure in such cases. Mr. Taft, he added, concurred in the decision. During the remainder of his administration, a period of a year, he said, Col. Roosevelt said, the commissioner of corporations was made to complete his investigation. He said that in the three years of his present administration Mr. Taft at any time could have ordered the attorney general to bring suit against the Harvester company or could have requested the commissioner of corporations to hasten his investigation, but that Mr. Taft had taken no action, "except that he took a few days before the Massachusetts primary."

Col. Roosevelt also said that when the Northern Securities suit was brought against the Morgan interests in 1904, he was expected to run for president, but that when the Harvester company matter came up in 1907 he knew he would not be a candidate the following year so that if the action taken in this case did secure the good will, "of any of the Morgan interests, for anybody it secured their good will for Mr. Taft."

Col. Roosevelt spent most of the afternoon in preparing his statement.

"I have just begun to fight," he said earlier in the day. He received reports this afternoon of President Taft's criticism of him in his speech at Springfield, Mass., but declined to comment upon it, saying that he would make his reply in his speeches in Massachusetts.

CYCLONE NEAR OMAHA

Twenty-nine Injured in Terrible Wind Storm, With Great Damage to Property.

Omaha, Neb., April 25.—Twenty-nine persons were injured, one of them perhaps fatally, when a cyclone struck a Union Pacific passenger train, one mile west of North Loup, Neb., late today. The train, engine forward, was blown from the track and the three cars overturned.

A mile of telegraph line was blown down, cutting off direct communication with larger outside cities and preventing a list of the casualties being sent out for several hours. The engineer ran his engine to Ord and returned with a car in which the injured were taken to Ord. A wrecking and relief train was sent to North Loup from Grand Island with a corps of physicians.

ATTACK PRIMARY LAW

Chicago, April 25.—A bill attacking the constitutionality of the Illinois primary law was filed in the superior court today by William Hale Thompson, unsuccessful candidate in the recent primary for the Republican nomination for member of the Cook county board of review. An injunction is sought to restrain the city and county officials from paying for printed matter used at the primary.

MORE WITNESSES ARE SUMMONED

CAPTAINS OF OTHER LIVERS TO BE HEARD

Will Be Asked Why They Did Not Offer to Aid Sinking Titanic—Most of Day Given Over to Questioning Inventor of Wireless Telegraphy.

Washington, April 25.—To learn why a nearby steamer did not offer aid to the sinking Titanic, and to fix the exact hour at which the liner was warned that she was in the vicinity of dangerous ice, Senator William Alden Smith, chairman of the senate investigating committee, today summoned three important witnesses. They are J. H. Moore, captain of the steamer Mount Temple, who passed with a short distance of the Titanic when she was in extreme danger, and the captain and wireless operator of the liner, California, which sent the warning. They will be put on the stand tomorrow.

Subjunctives were heard for the master and operator of the California, while announcement that Captain Moore would appear was contained in a telegram from Acting Premier Foster of Canada. Captain Moore's story probably will be heard first, for his ship is due to sail from St. John's, N. B., late Saturday.

A new method of examining the members of the crew of the Titanic has been adopted, to insure greater dispatch. The men are anxious to return to their homes in England. Accordingly each member of the committee to day undertook the examination of a group, with the intention of releasing such as had nothing of importance to tell the committee.

The others will be placed on the stand. The names of those to be heard were not made public.

Marconi Questioned.

Virtually the entire day was given over to questioning Guglielmo Marconi, inventor of the wireless telegraph and head of the company bearing his name. Both the Titanic and the Carpathia were equipped with the Marconi apparatus. Harold T. Cottam, the wireless operator on the Carpathia, also was questioned. Marconi's examination was postponed and authorized the wireless operators on the Carpathia and the Titanic to tell the stories of the catastrophe for publication. He explained that in giving consent for the sale of these stories he had not attempted in any way to suppress general information of the wreck.

The inventor denied any knowledge of the Carpathia's wireless messages sent to the Titanic, and declared that he had no "key" to the Titanic's call, and "held out for four hours." Two of these messages, sent Marconi, were picked up by the American battleship Florida, the Carpathia was coming in and were forwarded to the secretary of the navy. Marconi declared he never authorized these messages, but did give consent that the operators could receive any message.

Early in his testimony he told of repeated attempts he had made during Sunday, Monday and the days following the tragedy for information. Senator Smith said to him:

"I would like to have your own best judgment as to whether the custom established by Operator Binns in the Republic disaster, selling his news, and the privilege you gave to the Carpathia, was a mistake."

Mr. Marconi said it had not and repeatedly insisted he had not attempted to suppress any details of the horror.

Louis Klein of Cleveland, Ohio, a witness, left his hotel yesterday and his whereabouts are unknown. Every effort is being made to find him. Senator Smith made the following announcement:

No Lack of Harmony.

"I desire to say that some rumors have reached the committee that there is friction and lack of harmony among the members of the sub-committee and I have the concurrence of my associates that they are untrue."

"Personally I have never heard of the slightest friction. We are all proceeding in our own way to get results. While some of my colleagues have been absent at some of the hearings, I want the record to show that they are performing a public duty on the committee of commerce and their absence must not be taken as any indication of their failure to take active part in this hearing. I wish to say further that we have determined to hear the members of the crew of the Titanic. It has been thought necessary, because of the large number of those men, to proceed with the hearing without the attendance of the public, each member of the committee examining his quota of these men. This was done to expedite the hearing."

The committee then adjourned until 10 o'clock to morning session, and the senators took the sailors to conference. It was the purpose to talk to each man, each senator taking as many as he could.

"We will endeavor to find out everything that each sailor knows about the wreck instead of putting each man on the stand to go over the whole ground," Senator Newlands said. "If we find any men who have knowledge of important facts concerning the tragedy that has not been developed in the public hearings, they will be brought before the committee for detailed examination."

FACTIONS IN A HOT FIGHT

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT FORCES
UNCOMPROMISING

Heated Conferences in Various Quarters Marked Early Morning Hours in Missouri Republican Convention.

St. Louis, April 26.—Although the claim that Governor Herbert S. Hadley and other Roosevelt leaders in the state convention met for a formidable opposition when they attempted to force Taft managers to accept a minority of the delegates at large to the Republican national convention, a fight which had delayed the opening of the convention from 10 o'clock in the morning until 9 o'clock to night was resumed after the convention had been called to order and continued for hours, while delegates protested in vain at the delay.

Fear of a disrupting of the convention quieted for a time by the formal call to order last night, was renewed in the early morning hours, as the bitterness increased, and delegates held heated conferences in various quarters of the convention hall.

Governor Hadley was defeated for temporary chairman of the convention by Mayor P. H. K. Reumann of St. Louis and preliminary organization was not decided upon until two hours before the delegates went to the armory.

After the transaction of routine business the convention took a recess while the various committees were at work.

Taft leaders claimed by an agreement between them and the Roosevelt managers that eight delegates at large, four for Taft and four for Roosevelt, were to be sent to the national convention at Chicago instead of four delegates at large. The eight, it is said, were to be given a half vote each.

This, the Taft men said, would make the convention an "even break" between the Roosevelt and Taft forces.

The Roosevelt men, however, declared that delegates at large to the national convention would be instructed for Roosevelt and that no agreement had been made.

Argument on this point in committee room caused the recess to be extended to a late hour, while delegates chafed under the further delay in the proceedings.

STORM IN KANSAS

Wichita, Kans., April 25.—Three persons are reported dead as the result of one of four tornadoes, which did considerable damage near Kansas City, late today. The greatest damage is reported from Ponca City, Okla., where a Mrs. Moore and child, and an unidentified man were killed. The tornado destroyed 75 houses.

At Uenac, Okla., 25 miles south-east of Arkansas City, the Santa Fe depot and a number of houses were destroyed. Another storm near Geuda Springs, twelve miles west of Arkansas City, destroyed a number of farm houses. A fourth tornado passed through between Arkansas City and Winfield, destroying a farm house and doing much damage to the interurban property.

TAFT HOPES TO RECOVER

BODY OF MAJOR BUTT.

Boston, April 25.—Before leaving for New York late to night President Taft dictated a telegram to the secretary of war in Washington directing him to dispatch Major Blanton Winslow, U. S. A., to Halifax, N. S., to scrutinize the bodies of the Titanic victims landed there by the cable ship Mackay-Bennet. In the hope of recovering that of Major Archibald W. Butt.

HARVESTER LETTERS CAUSE DEBATE

SENATOR WILLIAMS CALLS
FORMER PRESIDENT A MODERN CAESAR HUNGRY FOR POWER.

Parody on Apostles. Creed Cited. Sensation-Senator Bristow Warns of Defects Roosevelt as a Tribune of the People and Criticizes Taft Administration.

Washington, April 25.—The first sensational political debate in the senate at this session of congress broke today over Col. Roosevelt's official correspondence about the International Harvester company, when he was president in 1907.

Senator Bristow of Kansas, was the principal speaker in support of Col. Roosevelt, and Senator John Sharp Williams of Mississippi, was the former president's principal assailant.

Mr. Williams characterized the former president as a "modern Caesar willing to seize power by any means," while Mr. Bristow defended the colonel as the modern tribune of the people, and warmly criticized President Taft's administration.

Parody on Apostles Creed. The debate became almost ultra-sensational when Senator Williams read to the senate a parody on the apostles creed as follows:

"I believe in Theodore Roosevelt, maker of noise and strife, and in ambition his only creed (my Lord)."

"He was born in the love of power and suffered under William H. Taft; was crucified, dead and buried; he descended into Africa. The third year he rose again from the jungle and ascended into favor and stetheth on the right hand of his party whence he shall come to scourge the licked and the dead."

"I believe in the holy outburst, the big stick, the Ammanias club, the forgiveness of political activities, the resurrection of presidential ambitions and the third term of earthly power. Amen. Amen. Amen."

Bristow precipitated debate. The debate was precipitated by Senator Bristow's return to his charges yesterday that Col. Roosevelt had existed between the senate and the department of justice in the sending of the official correspondence yesterday, and that the party had been shown in the proceeding that only correspondence regarding the case of President Roosevelt's administration had been sent to the senate, while the papers relating to the Taft administration, proceedings had not. He asserted again that Attorney General Wickens had his reply ready to send when Senator Johnson's resolution of yesterday reached him, and referred to the fact that two similar resolutions, 12 Senators, overruled a 14, and had been carried 23-13.

Senator Johnson denied that there had been an anti-senate resolution, and declared that he was not seen by the attorney general or his personal secretary. Senator Clark of West Virginia pointed out that the Johnson resolution differed from the others in that it called for certain specific information. He and Senator Nelson gave instances in which the Roosevelt administration had withheld correspondence with the bureau of corporations.

Senator Bristow remarked that evidently there was no disposition on either side of the chamber to criticize President Taft, to which Senator Williams protested.

"If the senator can show me that the present president has traveled in the same way as the former president, I will condemn him as strongly as I would Roosevelt," he declared.

"It would have to be a matter of grave public concern in which vital interests of the country were affected," Senator Bristow returned, "before I would dig up the confidential correspondence of my predecessor's secretary and his cabinet officers in regard to matters which he had a perfect right to believe would be kept within the confidence of the department and print them for political campaign purposes."

Lectured Republicans

With that Senator Williams stepped out from his desk and took a position in the center aisle of the senate, where he said "he could be more impartial as between parties and factions," and entered into a good natured lecture to the Republicans.

Senator Bristow he referred to as one of the chief upholders of the present time, who was still opposed to lifting the lid from administration secrets. Mr. Bristow insisted that he had been misunderstood.

Senator Williams discussed the correspondence made public yesterday and then touched on the "third term."

"Are you going to come out for a third term?" he demanded. "Are you going to forget what Washington Jefferson, Jackson, Lincoln and McKinley did and said? Are you going to put all that behind you because of a little keynote phrasing?"

Senator Nelson interjected that his sympathies would be with the Democrats if Col. Roosevelt should be elected.

"You will get the worst of it," he said.

"Not the Democratic party only, but the entire American people will get the worst of it," retorted Mr. Williams.

Says Caesarism Is Menace

He declared that if Americans were not careful they might sink into Caesarism. He referred to the former president as "Saint Theodore" and said that when Mr. Roose-

INQUIRY INTO "MONEY TRUST"

HOUSE AGREES TO SWEEPING INVESTIGATION.

Representative Mann Accuses Democrats With Trying to "Hold Up" Corporations and Force Them to Support Their Candidate For President.

Wants to Vote Her Stock.

Miss Robinson Objects to Action of Administrator of Estate.

St. Louis, April 25.—The house today empowered its banking and currency committee to make a sweeping investigation of the financial interests of the country, their relations to industrial, transportation and banking interests, and the extent to which their interrelations may constitute a "money trust."

By a vote of 241 to 15 the Pulo resolution, endorsing practically all the allegations and authority of the original Henry "money trust" resolution, was adopted by the house, immediately after Representative Mann of Illinois, Republican leader, in a fiery speech, charged the Democrats with trying to "hold up" the corporations and force them to support the Democratic candidate for the presidency. "Those who voted against the resolution were:

Republicans: Austin, Tennessee; Calder, New York; Cannon, Illinois; Dabell, Pennsylvania; Draper, New York; Henry Higgins and Tilson, Howell, Utah; Mallory, New York, and Hollaway, New Hampshire.

Democrats: Representatives Brantley, Georgia; Bullock, Alabama; Ohio, and Evans, Illinois.

Mr. Pulo, chairman of the banking and currency committee, announced late today that he had telegraphed to Samuel Untermyer of New York and Edgar H. Farrar of New Orleans, he attorneys who are to conduct the investigation, asking them to meet at the committee at once to arrange for an opening of the "money trust" inquiry.

Representative Mann charged during the debate that Mr. Untermyer of New York is proposing to milk the money powers and the corporations that he is seeking to investigate.

"This is one of those 'come and see' resolutions," Mr. Mann said. "We have an important political question at stake. There is need for money. They say to a corporation come and show us everything you have ever done, or else put up with it."

Mr. Mann said: "If you dare make a move in favor of our political opponents, we will drag you up before the bar of our committee."

No such gross abuse was ever evidenced in the history of the government.

Mr. Mann's speech was met by a counter attack from Mr. Underwood of Texas, who said that he had passed a resolution of campaign fund publicity bill, which would prevent any banking of the corporations.

"Mr. Underwood and Speaker Clark went into a Democratic caucus and debated a favorable report on the 'money trust' resolution," said Mr. Mann. "But the two gentlemen are candidates for the nomination of the presidency. The gentleman from Texas has run them to cover. He has had his way now, representing another candidate for the presidency, Mr. Wilson, of New Jersey, and the distinguished candidates for the presidency from Alabama and Missouri are afraid to stand where they stood at the time of the Democratic caucus. They have laid down and let the gentleman from Texas walk over their prostrate bodies."

Chairman Henry denied that either Speaker Clark or Mr. Underwood was opposed to the new resolution.

"They would not suppress my dear Harman letters," he declared, "they would not suppress the letters that were written by Perkins or about Perkins, or those records that are now lying in a bureau of this government."

Chairman Pulo of the banking and currency committee said that wider powers of investigation were demanded by the lawyers who have been engaged by the committee.

"Is it not a fact that Mr. Untermyer has had difficulty with some corporations and it is for that purpose that he is seeking to bring about this investigation?" said Representative Foster, Democrat, of New York.

"I do not know that," said Mr. Pulo.

TO REGULATE PICTURE SHOWS

Ordinance Prepared By City Attorney Is Before Council—Main Purpose of Measure Is To Provide Fire Protection For Audiences—Penalties Outlined For Managers Who Disobey Law

City Attorney Hairegrove has prepared and submitted to the commissioners an ordinance to regulate the installation, operation and maintenance of motion picture machines. The ordinance provides not only for the regulation of installation, operation and maintenance of the machines, but also for a regulation of the arrangement of audience rooms in relation to illumination, exits, seats and exits, and the storage of combustible films therein. It also prescribes penalties and fixes the responsibilities of proprietor, manager and other representatives in charge of audience rooms and moving picture machines.

The first sections of the ordinance prescribe that any person or firm desiring to store or make use of any motion picture films within any building must first appear before the city clerk and file application for a permit. The application shall contain the location and a description of the room and building in which the film is to be used, handled, repaired or stored, together with plans and specifications showing full details of all arrangements made and to be made to safeguard the premises and the people who may be therein.

Motion Picture Rooms.

The ordinance provides that every motion picture machine, before being operated, must be installed in a room or enclosure, constructed entirely of fire resistive galvanized iron, hard asbestos board, asbestos building lumber, or their equivalent. The location, size, construction and arrangement of booths are taken up in great detail. The booth must be placed directly over an exit and in all cases must be securely anchored or fastened so as to prevent dislodgement in case of panic. Each room in which a motion picture is installed must not be less than seven feet in height, with area of floor space varying in accordance with the number of machines or devices installed in such booth. There shall be not more than two openings in booth for each machine—one for observation by the operator and one for operation of the machine. The main or entrance door shall be hung on at least three heavy hinges and arranged to close against substantial metal rabbit. The door shall also be provided with a substantial spring which will keep it closed tightly. The lighting, shelving and ventilation are dealt with at great length in the ordinance. Other provisions are:

Electric Lights Only

The motion picture machine must be securely fastened to the floor to prevent accidental turning or moving of the same and no machine shall be operated other than by hand power. No artificial light shall be used in any room in which a motion picture machine is installed except that produced by electricity. If house lights are controlled from within the booth an additional emergency control must be provided near the main exit and kept at all times in good condition. All electric wiring or apparatus used be in full compliance with the rules of the National Electrical Code and inspected and approved.

Fire Extinguishers.

At least two standard hand chemical fire extinguishers shall be provided, one inside the booth and located in an accessible place within easy reach of the operator, the other located outside the booth near the door to same. Neither smoking nor the keeping or use of matches shall be permitted in any booth, where a motion picture machine is installed. Each machine shall be in charge of an experienced operator. The entrance door to the moving picture machine booth shall be kept closed, but not locked, when an audience is in the building.

No motion picture shall be installed or operated in any building that does not about directly upon a street and every exhibition room, about which upon one street shall have two exits. No exhibition room with a gallery or galleries shall be located in any building except it be of fire-proof construction. The seating of the exhibition hall, the arrangement of the aisles so as to lead to the exits and various other points of a similar nature are taken up in one section of the ordinance.

Penalties Provided.

When the provision of the ordinance are not conformed to or where defects of installation exist, the officer of the city is empowered to cut off all electric current from the room or building, and the supply of electric current is not to be restored by any one until all the provisions of the ordinance are complied with.

Any person violating or failing to comply with the provisions of the ordinance is subject to a fine of not less than ten dollars and not more than one hundred dollars and costs.

The ordinance also states that no picture house, or other show house, or opera house shall use or maintain a "bally hoo" man, megaphone, electric piano, player or other musical instrument or device of any kind or character to attract people on the street and any such instrument or device shall be declared a nuisance. The owner or other person violating this section shall be subject to a fine of not less than five or more than twenty-five dollars for each offense.

HOW TO RENOVATE PARASOLS

Dainty Touches That Simple Needlework Will Effect.

If your last summer parasols are too dilapidated to use get them out and study their possibilities. Some whose covering is only soiled, not faded, may be cleaned and freshened by embroidery or a covering of net or chiffon; others may need new tops.

The latter can be added at home by a skilled needlewoman, but if distrustful of one's ability do the embroidery first and take the frame and covering to a professional to be mounted.

Remember that the distance between spokes may vary, so in removing the cover mark a certain spoke with a thread and number the sections from that. In this way it will be easy to get the new cover in its right position.

Cut each section from the old one, allowing a trifle more for seams if the edges have been cut. Paste carefully, fit to the frame, then sew the seams firmly, and the cover is ready for its embroidery or further decoration.

This may be done before mounting or after the cover is firmly tacked to the frame. When a design is detached each section can be worked before the panels are basted together. For braiding it is easier to mount the cover than work with both hands, as on a standard frame.

A plain white linen parasol may be given a decided air by working in the panels sprays of flowers in eyelet embroidery and outline for the seams or entirely in solid embroidery. An effective parasol of white pongee has bunches of wild carrot worked in the panels. Two sizes of sprays are used, a bold one in every alternate panel, with a single flower on the others. The flower panels are worked in French knot in heavy Roman floss, the foliage done in slanting satin stitch.

A parasol of pale gray linen was given a fine inch border of deep rose sewed on the outside of the parasol. The joining was concealed by a line of wild roses worked in several tones of pink, with pale yellow centers and green stems.

Any linen or silk parasol could be changed by adding a similar border in a deeper tone of its own shade or in a contrasting color. Harmonize the two sections by a conventional design worked in self tones. A violet linen cover could have a deep purple border and vines of clematis worked in purple shades.

OLIVE OIL

Its Joyful Advent and Uses

ONLY in recent years have Americans been aroused to the value of Olive Oil, although for centuries, people of the Mediterranean had placed it upon the same pedestal as "The staff of life." Yes, Olive Oil antedates the Christian era. Olive trees around Jerusalem having a reputed age of 2,000 years.

In its native land, butter and lard are supplanted by Oil from the Olive, and the fruit itself answers the purpose of meat; the superb health of the peasantry attests the remarkable value of this diet of Olives and Oil, this combination of food, and antidote for ill. Unlike animal fats, that of the Olive is easily assimilated; as a builder of tissue in enfeebled bodies tending toward emaciation, PURE Olive Oil is a wonder.

Leading skin specialists now emphasize the value of Olive Oil as a complexion beautifier; results are obtained by regular daily internal use, and by liberal external applications.

Best of reasons, as you see, why the product of the Olive tree is now finding a permanent place upon the tables of the enlightened and grateful of every land.

In all countries suited to Olive Culture, while increasing attention is given to the perfecting of Olive Oil, much of it is still inferior quality. The Oil may be pure, and still be of low grade. Quality is quite as important as purity.

We have direct affiliation with distributors for oil producers whose plants are located in favored zones, and who use scrupulous care in the selection, crushing and pressing of ripe olives, and the filtering of the Oil.

We give our guarantee that every bottle and tin contains absolutely pure Olive Oil without mixing or adulteration of any kind and that it will give overflowing satisfaction.

The Inside Of Canned Goods

Canned goods look pretty much all alike from the outside. The tins on the shelves lack all about the same to the customer. But inside of this, THAT'S THE PART YOU EAT. Did you ever stop to think what a difference there might be in the selecting, preparing, cleaning and preserving or cooling of the fruits and vegetables that go inside these cans. No doubt you have. We have too and we don't buy canned goods according to the way tins look. Pretty pictures on the cans don't influence us for one minute. Neither do the bigger profits made by handling inferior goods. We buy only the purest known canned goods from those high grade canners with proven reputation for care and cleanliness.

MISSIONARY UNION

Semi-Annual Meeting at Congregational Church Was Well Attended—Rev. W. L. Dorgan Delivered Excellent Address.

The semi-annual meeting of the missionary Union of Jacksonville was held Thursday afternoon at the Congregational church and was in every way a most profitable session. The room in which the meeting was held was appropriately decorated with spring blossoms and the ladies of the church were charming hostesses. There was a good attendance.

Mrs. C. C. Cochran, the president, called the meeting to order and Mrs. H. D. French conducted the devotions, reading from the fourth chapter of Philippians and offering prayer for the session. Mrs. A. C. Metcalf, called the roll and read the minutes. The ladies of the Christian church invited the Union to hold its October meeting in the Christian church. Mrs. Harold Gay delighted the audience with a vocal solo, Miss Edith Robinson being accompanist, following which Rev. W. L. Dorgan, pastor of First Baptist church, was introduced and delivered an excellent address.

Rev. Mr. Dorgan in his remarks set forth the importance of Missions and the attitude of people in general toward this great cause. He said that he was wholly converted to missions, that in fact being his hobby. He emphasized the fact that Christ and Missions are synonymous and that any church to succeed must believe in world evangelism. Mrs. Percy Jenkinson then sang a beautiful solo and the meeting was closed with a brief prayer by Dr. R. O. Post. The ladies remained for a social time and dainty refreshments were served. An offering of $3.90 was taken for the cause of Missions.

Woman's Relief Corps will meet this afternoon at 2:30 at the G. A. R. Hall on West Morgan street by order of:

WAS PROFITABLE MEETING.

A Parent-Teachers' meeting was held Thursday afternoon at the Franklin school, a large number being in attendance. The address of the afternoon was by Dr. H. S. Calley who spoke on "Adolescents and Children," and it was full of helpful knowledge. At its close several questions were asked and the subject discussed. Some excellent music was furnished by three boys from the State School for the Blind on the flute, violin and piano. Mrs. J. K. C. Pierson presented the subject of floral gardens for children. The officers were re-elected as follows:

President—Mrs. James Brown.
Vice-President—Mrs. Edith Dunlap.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. William Winchester.
Chairman Musical Pro.—Mrs. E. C. Carpenter.

MISS BROWN WILL SPEAK.

TO REGULATE PICTURE SHOWS

Ordinance Prepared By City Attorney Is Before Council—Main Purpose of Measure Is To Provide Fire Protection For Audiences—Penalties Outlined For Managers Who Disobey Law

City Attorney Hainsworth has prepared and submitted to the commissioners an ordinance to regulate the installation, operation and maintenance of motion picture machines. The ordinance provides not only for the regulation of installation, operation and maintenance of the machines, but also for a regulation of the arrangement of audience rooms in relation to illumination, aisle seats and exits, and the storage of combustible films therein. It also prescribes penalties and fixes the responsibilities of proprietor, manager and other representatives in charge of audience rooms and moving picture machines.

The first sections of the ordinance prescribe that any person or firm desiring to store or make use of any motion picture films within any building must first appear before the city clerk and file application for a permit. The application shall contain the location and a description of the room and building in which the film is to be used, handled, repaired or stored, together with plans and specifications showing full details of all arrangements made and to be made to safeguard the premises and the people who may be therein.

Motion Picture Rooms.

The ordinance provides that every motion picture machine, before being operated, must be installed in a room or enclosure, constructed entirely of fire resistant galvanized iron, hard asbestos board, asbestos building lumber, or their equivalent. The location, size, construction and arrangement of booths are taken up in great detail. The booth must be placed directly over an exit and in all cases must be securely anchored or fastened so as to prevent dislodgement in case of panic. Each room in which a motion picture is installed must not be less than seven feet in height, with area of floor space varying in accordance with the number of machines or devices installed in such booths. There shall be not more than two openings in booth for each machine—one for observation by the operator and one for operation of the machine. The main or entrance door shall be hung on at least three heavy hinges and arranged to close against substantial metal rabnet. The door shall also be provided with a substantial swing which will keep it closed tightly. The flooring, shelving and ventilation are dealt with at great length in the ordinance. Other provisions are:

Electric Lights Only.

The motion picture machine must be securely fastened to the floor to prevent accidental turning or moving of the same and no machine shall be operated other than by hand power. No artificial light shall be used in any room in which a motion picture machine is installed except that produced by electricity. If house lights are controlled from within the booth an additional emergency control must be provided near the main exit and kept at all times in good condition. All electric wiring or apparatus used be in full compliance with the rules of the National Electrical Code and inspected and approved.

Fire Extinguishers.

At least two standard hand chemical fire extinguishers shall be provided, one inside the booth and located in an accessible place within easy reach of the operator, the other located outside the booth near the door to same. Neither smoking nor the keeping or use of matches shall be permitted in any booth where a motion picture machine is installed. Each machine shall be in charge of an experienced operator. The entrance door to the moving picture machine booth shall be kept closed, but not locked, when an audience is in the building.

Penalties Provided.

When the provision of the ordinance are not conformed to or when defects of installation exist, the officer of the city is empowered to cut off all electric current from the room or building, and the supply of electric current is not to be restored by any one until all the provisions of the ordinance are complied with.

The ordinance also states that no picture house, or other show house, or opera house shall use or maintain a "bally hoo" man, megaphone, electric piano, player or other musical instrument or device of any kind or character to attract people on the street and any such instrument or device shall be declared a nuisance. The owner or other person violating this section shall be subject to a fine of not less than five or more than twenty-five dollars for each offense.

The marriage of John E. Markille and Mrs. Amy Barnes took place last Tuesday evening in Winchester, Rev. L. G. Adams officiating. Both bride and groom have always resided in Scott county, where they are well known and highly respected.

Buying a Wife.

In the Swiss village of Utzmech recently a woman was "sold" with her consent, to another man by her husband. The buyer, an Italian and friend of the Swiss couple, thought he was "legalizing" the sale by procuring two witnesses and having the contract written on stamped government paper. The Italian told his Swiss friend that he wanted a wife, and the Swiss promptly offered to sell him his own wife at a bargain price, which was then discussed and fixed at $5.

The Old Corliss Engine.

A giant among giants in fact, the largest steam engine then in the world—the Corliss, which actuated the machinery in the machinery hall at the Centennial exposition in 1876, was recently sold to the Oakdale Iron company of Chicago and now lies broken up for scrap. The engine had been at Pullman, Ill., ever since it was removed from the Centennial exposition, having furnished power for the last thirty-five years.

Our Birds Going Abroad.

Among the birds seen for the first time in British islands last year were a North American sandpiper, a Siberian pine bunting, a North American peregrine falcon captured in a plover net on the Lincolnshire coast and an American pipit. The last named bird was not only the first in Britain, but the third ever noted on the whole continent of Europe.

HOW TO RENOVATE PARASOLS

Dainty Touches That Simple Needlework Will Effect.

If your last summer parasols are too dilapidated to use get them out and study their possibilities. Some whose covering is only soiled, not faded, may be cleaned and freshened by embroidery or a covering of net or chiffon; others may need new tops.

The latter can be added at home by a skilled needlewoman, but if distrustful of one's ability do the embroidery first and take the frame and covering to a professional to be mounted.

Remember that the distance between spokes may vary, so in removing the cover mark a certain spoke with a thread and number the sections from that. In this way it will be easy to get the new cover in its right position.

Cut each section from the old one, allowing a trifle more for seams if the edges have been cut. Baste carefully, fit to the frame, then sew the seams firmly, and the cover is ready for its embroidery or further decoration.

This may be done before mounting or after the cover is firmly tacked to the frame. When a design is detached each section can be worked before the panels are basted together. For braiding it is easier to mount the cover than work with both hands, as on a standard frame.

A plain white linen parasol may be given a decided air by working in the panels sprays of flowers in eyelet embroidery and outline for the seams or entirely in solid embroidery. An effective parasol of white pongee has bunches of wild carrot worked in the panels. Two sizes of sprays are used, a bold one in every alternate panel, with a single flower on the others. The flower panicles are worked in French knot in heavy Roman floss, the foliage done in slanting satin stitch.

A parasol of pale gray linen was given a fine inch border of deep rose sewed on the outside of the parasol. The joining was concealed by a line of wild roses worked in several tones of pink, with pale yellow centers and green stems.

Any linen or silk parasol could be changed by adding a similar border in a deeper tone of its own shade or in a contrasting color. Harmonize the two sections by a conventional design worked in self tones. A violet linen cover could have a deep purple border and vines of clematis worked in purple shades.

OLIVE OIL

Its Joyful Advent and Uses

ONLY in recent years have Americans been aroused to the value of Olive Oil, although for centuries, people of the Mediterranean had placed it upon the same pedestal as "The staff of life." Yes, Olive Oil antedates the Christian era. Olive trees around Jerusalem having a reputed age of 2,000 years.

The Inside Of Canned Goods

Canned goods look pretty much all alike from the outside. The tins on the shelves look all about the same to the customer. But inside of this, THAT'S THE PART YOU EAT. Did you ever stop to think what a difference there might be in the selecting, preparing, cleaning and preserving or cooling of the fruits and vegetables that go inside these cans. No doubt you have. We have too and we don't buy canned goods according to the way they look. Pretty pictures on the cans don't influence us for one minute. Neither do the bigger profits made by handling inferior goods. We buy only the purest known canned goods from those high grade canners with proven reputation for care and cleanliness.

Semi-Annual Meeting at Congregational Church Was Well Attended—Rev. W. L. Dorgan Delivered Excellent Address.

The semi-annual meeting of the missionary Union of Jacksonville was held Thursday afternoon at the Congregational church and was in every way a most profitable session. The room in which the meeting was held, was appropriately decorated with spring blossoms and the ladies of the church were charming hostesses. There was a good attendance.

Mrs. C. C. Cochran, the president, called the meeting to order and Mrs. H. D. French conducted the devotions, reading from the fourth chapter of Philippians and offering prayer. The business session was next in order. The secretary, Mrs. A. C. Metcalf, called the roll and read the minutes. The ladies of the Christian church invited the Union to hold its October meeting in the Christian church.

Mrs. Harold Gay delighted the audience with a vocal solo, Miss Edith Robinson being accompanist, following which Rev. W. L. Dorgan, pastor of First Baptist church, was introduced and delivered an excellent address.

Rev. Mr. Dorgan in his remarks set forth the importance of Missions and the attitude of people in general toward this great cause. He said that he was wholly converted to missions, that in fact being his hobby. He emphasized the fact that Christ and Missions are synonymous and that any church to succeed must believe in world evangelism.

A beautiful solo and the meeting was closed with a brief prayer by Dr. R. O. Post. The ladies remained for a social time and dainty refreshments were served.

An offering of $3.90 was taken for the cause of Missions.

Woman's Relief Corps will meet this afternoon at 2:30 at the G. A. R. Hall on West Morgan street by order of:

Mary H. Weller, Pres.

WAS PROFITABLE MEETING.

A Parent-Teachers' meeting was held Thursday afternoon at the Franklin school, a large number being in attendance. The address of the afternoon was by Dr. H. S. Galloway who spoke on "Adenoids and children," and it was full of helpful knowledge. At its close several questions were asked and the subject discussed. Some excellent music was furnished by three boys from the State School for the Blind on the flute, violin and piano. Mrs. J. K. C. Pierson presented the subject of floral gardens for children. The officers were re-elected as follows:

President—Mrs. James Brown.
Vice-President—Mrs. Edith Dunlap.
Secretary-Treasurer—Mrs. William Winchester.
Chairman Musical Pro.—Mrs. E. C. Carpenter.

MISS BROWN WILL SPEAK.

There will be a meeting of the Parent-Teachers' association of the first ward at the Jefferson school this afternoon at 3:15. Miss Anna Brown, of the department of manual training at the high school, will be the speaker. Her addresses are always full of interest and profit to patrons of the school and friends are cordially invited. There are also some important matters of business to be transacted.

SUFFERED BROKEN FINGER.

WAS SUCCESSFUL MANAGER.

Almost every one will remember what a success Miss Marie Scott scored in the play of "Fanchon, the Cricketer" in this city some years ago. After graduating at the state university Miss Scott secured a position as teacher in Dwight and recently managed a play, "Anne of Old Salem," which was put on with great success. Her sister, Miss Irene, went up to enjoy the play and has just returned home.

DISCUSS PRAIRIE STREET PAVING

Board of Local Improvement Held Hearing—Majority Present Favor Asphalt.

A public hearing for a pavement on North and South Prairie street was held Thursday morning at the city hall by the board of local improvement. In the absence of Mayor Davis, who is out of the city, Commissioner Knollberg presided the other members of the board, Commissioner Newman and Engineer Henderson, being present. There were twenty or more property owners present and a majority of them expressed themselves in favor of asphalt. Those who went on record for asphalt are said to represent about one sixth of the total frontage of the street. There were very few on hand Thursday who expressed opposition to the paving project.

H. H. Baneroff and Luther E. Smith were advocates of asphalt and gave reasons why they thought this pavement would be of the most satisfactory for the street. The excellence of the West College street pavement was pointed out and the various advantages claimed for asphalt over brick were mentioned. Its noiselessness and general appearance were commented upon and the speakers maintained that the experiences of other cities would show that asphalt has lasting qualities if taken care of to a reasonable extent and that repair work is not excessive in cost.

Among others who spoke in favor of asphalt were George Hollinger, Joseph Cridland, Alexander Armstrong, Jerry Cox, who appeared for himself and Miss Blunt, S. Casky, J. H. Jewsbury, James Harrigan, James I. Graham, C. A. Osborne, Mrs. W. S. Badger, who appeared for Mrs. DePew, and Henry Struck.

W. J. Moore and H. C. Montgomery are very much in favor of a brick pavement on concrete and believe that such a pavement will give more satisfaction in the long run. They think that a brick block pavement will cost less than an asphalt pavement, that its life is longer and that necessary repairs are less expensive. They think that while an asphalt pavement is desirable in some ways that if it is to be kept in good condition that constant attention must be given and the pavement maintained free from dirt. Such attention they think is kept practical unless someone is kept working on the street all the time and this would be expensive. Joseph DeSilva also expressed himself favorably to brick.

Among those present who like to see the proposed paving work postponed indefinitely were James Magner, Moses DeOrnellas who spoke for himself, Mrs. Julia Lockman and Edward Cullen, J. DeCastro and Aaron Swaby. Mr. Magner said that the sewer on Prairie street north of the Wabash is not large enough to accommodate all residents and that the paving work should be deferred until after a larger sewer has been constructed.

The hearing was then adjourned until next Thursday when the board will take some action with reference to the street and will probably order the improvement and specify what materials shall be used.

A hearing was held by the board in the afternoon for the proposed sewer on South Main Street from Superior to Michigan. There were no objection filed and a resolution was passed ordering the improvement.

HIS PARENTS' COUSIN.

Curiously Involved Relationship of the Prince of Wales.

The Prince of Wales has a curiously involved relationship to his own father and mother. It constitutes a problem such as is seldom found outside of princely houses.

He is the third cousin of his father and also the second cousin of his mother. This makes his relation to himself somewhere between that of a third and fourth cousin.

He is, as it were, his own double third cousin, a relationship which it will doubtless take some time for him thoroughly to grasp.

Both the king and the queen are descended from George III. of England. George III.'s son, Adolphus, Duke of Cambridge, had a daughter Mary, who married the Duke of Teck and became the mother of the Prince of Wales, who married the Duchess of York, now King George V. George's father, King Edward VII, was the great-grandson of the same King George III.

It would seem that the young prince has a perfect right, therefore, to address either his mother, his father or himself as "my royal cousin," and he might very well excuse any partiality for his mother over his father by declaring that she is a nearer relation to him than his father.

The princely families of Europe supply many similar cases of tangled relationships.—Harper's.

Germans Buy Nothing on Credit.

"People in Germany have much more money to spend than here in America, even though the ratio of population there is much greater than in the United States," said William H. Steilway just before sailing for Germany recently. "The German way is to pay cash for what one can afford, and there is absolutely no such thing as living beyond one's means, as we do here. Moreover, there are very clearly defined class distinctions, recognized by the people themselves, who never dream of trying to go above their station."—New York World.

NIP IT IN THE BUD.

First Appearance of Dandruff a Forerunner of Future Baldness.

That such is the case has been conclusively proven by scientific research. Prof. Hanna, the noted European skin specialist, declares that dandruff is the barrow-up outcrop of the scalp, caused by parasites destroying the vitality in the hair bulb. The hair becomes lifeless, and, in time, falls out. This can be prevented.

Newbala Herpelle kills this dandruff germ, and restores the hair to its natural softness and abundance.

Herpelle is now used by thousands of people all over the world. It is the most wonderful hair preparation on the market today.

DEATHS AND FUNERAL

Brockman.
A large number of relatives and friends assembled at Central Christian church Thursday afternoon to pay a final tribute of respect to Samuel C. Brockman. The services were impressively conducted by Rev. Clyde Barsie, the pastor, who paid a beautiful tribute to the character of the deceased and preached from the text, I Timothy 1:6-8: "For I am now ready to be offered, and the time of my departure is at hand. I have fought a good fight, have finished my course, I have kept the faith; henceforth, there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day; and not to me only, but unto all them also that love his appearing." Rev. W. S. Phillips offered prayer.
The singing was by a quartet composed of Oliver Mason, W. S. Phillips, Ara and Marcus Robinson. Marcus Robinson sang as a solo, "Face to Face." There was an abundance of beautiful flowers, which were kindly cared for by Miss Maud Buck and Mrs. Sidney Sutton.
Interment was in Jacksonville cemetery and the bearers were Walter Rice, Clark Rice, D. W. Osborne, C. L. Mathis, James Watt and W. J. Moore. At the cemetery the service was in charge of the Odd Fellows, the members of this order attending in a body.
Among those to attend the funeral from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. U. G. Scott, Pleasant Plains; Mrs. Lynn, Los Angeles, Calif.; Mrs. Mabel Ewing Starns, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Sidney Sutton, Chicago; Mrs. James B. Black, Virginia; Mrs. Emma Ewing, Eureka; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Scott, southeast of city.

The house was a large brick structure owned by the company and was located on West street.

Earl Foster, who resides north of the city has received word of the death of his father, George Foster, which occurred Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock at his late home in Loami, Ill., at the age of 65 years. Mr. Foster's death was very sudden. He had gone across the street to the home of his step-son, Edward Hayes, and when he started to return he fell to the ground. It is thought that death was due to heart trouble. Coroner Clarence Rhodes of Springfield held an inquest Thursday.

Mr. Foster was born near Chaplin but for a number of years had resided at Curran and Loami. He and his wife recently had been living at the home of his step-son, Ernest Hayes, besides his wife he leaves the following children, Earl Foster of Morgan county, Mrs. Kate Garrett of Decatur, Mrs. George Walker of Loami, Elmer and Roland of Rhorer, also three step sons, Edward, William and Ernest Hayes of Loami.

He says: "Constant exposure gave me kidney trouble, with a steady, dull pain in my back that would turn into lumbago, and my kidney action was irregular. After taking four bottles of Foley Kidney Pills I am free from all these troubles and gladly recommend them." City Drug Store. J. A. Obermeyer.

H. K. Olmsted, 10 Chestnut St. Galesburg, Ill., says: "I suffered with pains over my hips and in my back, which in cold weather were almost unbearable. My bladder was inflamed and made me very uncomfortable. Soon after I started to take Foley Kidney Pills I began to improve, until now I am again in perfect health and free from pain." ON SUITS
We find we have just about double the number of Ladies' Tailor Made Suits that we should have at this season of the year.
If we had one-half the number of suits that we do have, we would feel secure in holding for a profit. As it is we are looking now only for the first cost.
Twenty suits will be placed in our window each day. The price per suit will be the average first cost.

THE PROBLEM
If the manufacturer's cost of 20 suits is $274.60, what would one suit cost?
Any lady answering this will receive her choice of any suit in the window for $13.73.

STRONG WIND DOES DAMAGE

Window Lights and Plate Glass Are Shattered by Heavy Gale—Roofing Removed From Building on South Sandy Street.

Many window lights were blown in and a number of plate glasses were shattered Thursday night by the strong wind which began early in the afternoon and continued to grow in strength as the hours of the night came. The worst damage done by the storm, perhaps, was on South Sandy street, where the metal roofing was blown from the building in which is Gay's hardware store and also the residences of John Van Os and Chester M. Sharpe upstairs. A section about forty feet square was unroofed, the wind raising up the sheeting and rolling it back. The rain which began to fall in torrents about 11 o'clock then beat through and flooded the apartments of Mr. Van Os and let some water down into the south room of Gay's hardware. Mr. Van Os was up the greater part of the night mopping up the water and catching it in buckets, as it was emitted through the roof.

A large plate glass in the front of the cafe of the Grand hotel was broken when the door was blown shut by the wind. A glass above the door of Bromley's tailoring establishment on West State street was also shattered by a falling sign. No doubt other damage was done as the wind blew a fierce gale.

In the country districts where the houses were without the protection of trees many window lights were blown in. In the neighborhood of Alexander and Franklin the wind seemed to have greater force behind it and considerable damage was done. Fruit trees and shade trees were deprived of their limbs or blown completely down. The heavy rain, which began to fall before midnight, contributed to the already bad condition of the elements, and where roofs were off and windows out, the damage by water will be considerable.

SENIOR RECITAL

Miss Frances English Delights Large Audience by Her Interpretation of "King Rene's Daughter."

Miss Frances English, a student in the School of Expression of the Woman's college, of which Miss Amanda Kidder is director, appeared in her senior recital Thursday afternoon in Music hall, before an audience that completely filled the large auditorium. Miss English, ranks high as a public speaker and the selection of yesterday was admirably fitted for her splendid delivery.

King Rene's daughter, by Hendrick Herz, is a lyrical drama of great charm and beauty of the fifteenth century. Iolanthe, the King's daughter, had been blind from childhood and Count Tristram, to whom she was betrothed, had never seen her until she was 16 years of age, and this by chance. He refused to marry her. The royal physician, Eban Jahia, is called upon to restore her sight. Various complications are met as the story progresses and finally when the girl's sight is restored, her joy is unspeakable and both find their love is sincere. The play ends most effectively with the old King's blessing of the two who are the world to him.

Miss English showed all the way through what a fine mental picture she had of the selection, all the characters standing out boldly. The speaker has a directness and simplicity about her delivery that never fails to impress an audience, and her poise and grace of manner, together with her musical voice combine to make her efforts effective. The part in the story where great sympathy was demanded, perhaps, revealed one of the strongest characteristics of Miss English's work, and the audience was moved to tears as the beautiful story of Iolanthe's blindness and restoration to sight was recited. Her program in every way was marked with strength and ability and it will easily rank as one of the best yet heard at the school.

TAFT MAKES VIGOROUS DEFENSE

I hold, not to indulge in personal controversy. I would hope that in the future, near or distant, facts would disclose themselves showing the injustice of the course he is pursuing toward me, and the merciless truth concerning his motives and his sincerity of statement and purpose.

Real Issues Clouded.

"But I am presented with this difficulty. I represented a cause. I stand for wise progress in governmental affairs and in the improvement of the condition of all the people that the Republican party stands for. I am the titular leader of that movement, and the substantial and sane legislation of my administration vindicates its existence and continuance. The supporters of this cause look to me to see to it that it is not seriously injured by the unjust, unfounded charges against me, and by the adroit appeals to discontent and class hatred that Mr. Roosevelt is now making to the public. They feel that by such charges and appeals Mr. Roosevelt has clouded the real and critical issues of the campaign and has misled a great many good and patriotic people of the country to his support, because no one has answered them as they ought to be answered. They think I am the only one whose position is such as to make an answer effective; that as the president whose administration is attacked, as the titular head of the Republican party whose integrity is threatened, and as the man whose character is aspersed, I must meet Mr. Roosevelt's attacks, however unpleasant may be a personal controversy with one whom in the past I have greatly admired and loved, and whose present change of attitude is the source of the saddest disappointment.

"Mr. Roosevelt prides himself on being a true sportsman, and he likes to take from the rules and language of sport, maxims to be applied to life in general. The maxim which he has exalted above all others, to which he has given currency the country over, and which he himself in his conduct of life wishes to have it thought he exemplifies, is that 'every man is entitled to a square deal.' I propose to examine the charges he makes against me, and to ask you whether in making them he is giving me a square deal."

In detail Mr. Taft dealt first with the statement by Col. Roosevelt in his Carnegie hall address in which the colonel said: "Mr. Taft fairly gives the issue when he says that our government is and should be a government of all the people by a representative part of the people. That is an excellent and moderate description of an oligarchy. It defines our government as a government of all the people by a few of the people."

In reply Mr. Taft said:

Retort to Toledo Speech.

"The excerpt which Mr. Roosevelt uses is taken from my speech at Toledo. It is entitled, 'I did not say this should be a government of all the people by a representative part of the people.' I said it is thus apparent that our is a government of all the people by a representative part of the people, and it is. The context shows clearly what I meant. I had pointed out that the government was by popular vote, that the voters did not include the women and children, that in number the voters were less than one-fourth of all the people, and that their action was the action of their majority; so that the government was controlled not by all the people, but by a representative part of the people, to wit, a majority of the adult males. Does Mr. Roosevelt deny this fact? I pointed out the fact that this popular government of ours is a government by the adult voting males in order to show the necessity for constitutional restrictions to protect the non-voters among the people against the possible injustice and aggression of a majority of the voters."

"Was I honest, was it fair of Theodore Roosevelt to seize one sentence from a speech, to garble it and then to give it a meaning which he knew from the context it could not bear? Do the just people of Massachusetts approve such method of warfare? Do they think that in carrying it on Mr. Roosevelt is giving to his successor a square deal?"

Mr. Taft next took up what he termed the "unfair" charge that he was in favor of an oligarchy of bosses.

Roosevelt and the Bosses.

"He (Col. Roosevelt) says that all the bosses are in my favor and all of them against him. That is not true. By his association with William Plinn, of Pittsburgh, there is being restored to power in that city and in Pennsylvania one of the worst municipal bosses that the history of that state knows. Mr. Roosevelt's chief supporter in Ohio today is Walter Brown, the only boss in full commission in that state, and who is looking forward to state control under Mr. Roosevelt's administration. He charges me with association with Mr. Barnes, of New York, while he is silent as to the support and advice he is receiving from Mr. William Ward, of the same state. Mr. Roosevelt knows that in 1910 but for the support he received from my friends, as against Mr. Barnes and Mr. Ward, he would not have been nominated as temporary chairman of the New York convention."

As to Mr. Roosevelt's charges of the "shameless" use of federal patronage by the president, Mr. Taft said that 70 per cent of the federal office holders now in the service were appointees of Mr. Roosevelt. He said that for a time some of the federal office holders were appointed by the president, but when he went to Columbus, while he used these same expressions in order to hold this element to his support, he at the same time and in that same address advanced such radical views as to the change of the fundamental principles of our government that the general business community lost sight of his promise to avoid injury to big business, and could only complete the danger to the security of all business by this threatened undermining of our constitutional government and his attack upon the independence of the judiciary.

"I affirm that the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt through the business community a feeling of such distrust as to the future as to interfere with the good times which if business is let alone and present conditions continue will expand into the most encouraging prosperity; and this will bring happiness to wage earners, who are more injuriously affected by disturbance of business than any other members of the community."

The Third Term Question.

"Mr. Roosevelt ought not to be nominated at Chicago, because in such nomination the Republican party will violate our most useful and necessary governmental tradition—that no one shall be nominated to hold a third presidential term."

Mr. Taft quoted from Mr. Roosevelt's statement in November 1911, the following:

"The wise custom which limits the president to two terms regards the substance and not the form and under no circumstances will I be

As "Ed" Howe Sees Life

When muskets take the place of oratory, revolution becomes serious.

For every promise, there comes a settlement day.

After we get what is coming to us from the railroads, let us go after what we should have had from them in the past. That would be more progress.

Employers say that when they get a really good man, they are not only compelled to pay him big wages, but are forced to go to the trouble of looking him up.

So many men are worthless that it is surprising that at least one does not realize his worthlessness; but such a thing never happened on the face of the earth.

After a girl has been engaged four or five years, there is something about her that reminds you of a married woman; she may not have her eyes entirely open, but she is beginning to see.

A man's estimate of his prospects or his popularity is as unreliable as a candidate's estimate of his majority a week before election.

Honestly, now, did you ever know a big-hearted man to give away anything except smiles?"

Big talk goes with being a Republican; but I am a Republican, and get nothing out of it except the pleasure of abusing Democrats, and the excitement of occasionally changing masters.

candidate than ever before in the history of the party.

Federal Officers Divided.

Mr. Taft said Mr. Roosevelt was not only enjoying the support of many federal office holders but the patronage of a number of state governors which were being used for him "with business-like manipulation that lacks nothing in effectiveness." He said the patronage of Gov. Hadley in Missouri; of Gov. Stubbs in Kansas, Gov. Glasscock in West Virginia, Gov. Osborn in Michigan, and Gov. Johnson in California, all were being used for Roosevelt.

Dealing with Mr. Roosevelt's charges that in his administration Mr. Taft had deserted the progressive and become a reactionary the president said that it was on Mr. Roosevelt's advice that he had his first meeting with speaker Cannon.

"I had been afraid that Mr. Cannon might oppose a revision of the tariff and I looked about immediately after my election to see whether it would be possible to secure votes enough in the caucus to elect another speaker. I found that it was not. At the request of President Roosevelt I had an interview with Mr. Cannon in which he agreed he would help reduce the promises of the Republican platform. This arrangement with Mr. Cannon was with the knowledge and emphatic approval of Mr. Roosevelt."

The Payne Tariff Bill.

Speaking of the Payne tariff bill Mr. Taft again defended his course in signing it and declared that to have vetoed it would have broken up the Republican party.

"Has Mr. Roosevelt ever condemned the Payne tariff bill?" He asked. "Does he say he would not have signed it if it had been presented to him under conditions that I had to meet? He has never said that as far as I know, and the New York platform of 1910, adopted by the convention of which he was a part, endorsed the pending bill and approved its passage."

In all Mr. Roosevelt's history he never failed to use as instruments for his purpose those whom he found in power. Indeed, throughout his life he has defended that course as the only sensible course to pursue. I have merely followed his example and I do not hesitate to point with satisfaction to the legislation which has been enacted in my three years."

"One of the real reasons why Mr. Roosevelt ought not to be selected as a candidate of any party is the natural distrust that the whole business community will have in respect to the measures which Mr. Roosevelt will purpose in order to effect a revolution in the interest of social justice which he advocates so strongly and defines so vaguely. It is true that, under the inspiration of the filing of the bill against the steel trust, he took such a strong ground against the anti-trust law that for a time some of the big business community approved him; but when he went to Columbus, while he used these same expressions in order to hold this element to his support, he at the same time and in that same address advanced such radical views as to the change of the fundamental principles of our government that the general business community lost sight of his promise to avoid injury to big business, and could only complete the danger to the security of all business by this threatened undermining of our constitutional government and his attack upon the independence of the judiciary."

"I affirm that the nomination of Mr. Roosevelt through the business community a feeling of such distrust as to the future as to interfere with the good times which if business is let alone and present conditions continue will expand into the most encouraging prosperity; and this will bring happiness to wage earners, who are more injuriously affected by disturbance of business than any other members of the community."

The Third Term Question.

"Mr. Roosevelt ought not to be nominated at Chicago, because in such nomination the Republican party will violate our most useful and necessary governmental tradition—that no one shall be nominated to hold a third presidential term."

Mr. Taft quoted from Mr. Roosevelt's statement in November 1911, the following:

"The wise custom which limits the president to two terms regards the substance and not the form and under no circumstances will I be a candidate or accept another nomination."

"He now says, although his language does not bear such a construction, that he meant he would not accept a nomination for a consecutive third term," said the president. "He says so in face of the fact that the most noteworthy precedent in which tradition was asserted and maintained was that of 1880, when General Grant was denied a third term four years after he had left the presidential office. It is not for me to enter into a discussion of the plain meaning of the language he used. If he had frankly announced that he had changed his mind so one could be disposed to hold him to a promise of that sort merely because he had made it. The promise and his treatment of it only throw an informative light on the issue that ought now to be attacked. I say promise of this kind he may make for the future. The important fact is that a declaration was the statement of a principle essential to the welfare of the people."

Roosevelt Favored Reciprocity.

Mr. Taft charged that Mr. Roosevelt was now seeking to take advantage of the supposed feeling among the farmers of the country against reciprocity with Canada. He said he would not object to this, but for the sake of the country he would not make for the future. The important fact is that a declaration was the statement of a principle essential to the welfare of the people."

QUICK RELIEF FOR RHEUMATISM

George W. Koons, Lawton, Mich., says: "Dr. Detchon's Relief for Rheumatism has given my wife wonderful benefit for rheumatism.
She could not lift hand or foot, had to be lifted for two months. She began the use of the remedy and was proved rapidly. On Monday she could not move and on Wednesday she got up, dressed herself and walked out for breakfast. Sold by L. P. Alcott, druggist."

How to Cure Toothache.

Here's a quick remedy for toothache that is easily prepared and applied and should be more widely known.
Melt white wax or spermaceti two parts and when melted add carbolic acid crystals one part and chloral hydrate crystals two parts. Stir well until dissolved. While still liquid im-morse thin layers of carbolized absorbent cotton and allow them to dry.
When required for use a small piece may be snipped off and slightly warmed, when it can be inserted in the low tooth, where it will solidify. The oase produced by this simple remedy is really very great and is almost instantaneous.

A MOTHER'S CARE.

A careful mother will not give her child a medicine without knowing it is pure, contains no opiates, and has healing and curative qualities. Such a medicine is Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for croup, whooping cough, bronchitis, and all affections of the throat, chest and lungs. Best and safest for children and grown persons. Contains no opiates. City

HOW TO WASH LINEN SUITS.

An Expert Laundress Describes the Best Method.

"For washing linen suits," said an expert laundress, "use only the best white soap and never rub the soap on the cloth unless there is a lot of hard dirt to be taken out. In the majority of cases the suits soak for an hour or so in soapy water, putting them in when the water is quite hot. By the time it is cool enough to permit washing freely the soiled parts are sufficiently soft to admit of cleaning without very much scrubbing. Rinse in several waters, always until the last water is perfectly clear. Then pass the garment through the stiffening water, after which it is pressed as dry as possible in the cotton sheet."

"Some stiffening is necessary to give the linen the appearance of freshness which it has when it comes to you from the tailor. On the other hand, the greatest care should be taken not to have too much stiffening. That ruins the appearance of what would otherwise be a perfectly washed suit.
You want just enough to give the linen body and yet not take away from its suppleness."

"In washing colored linens, excepting tans and browns, color all the waters and try always to avoid putting soap on colored linen, and also do not use water hotter than blood heat, allowing the linen to soak only a few minutes before washing it out and putting it in a second water of the same temperature and colored. Three waters are generally enough for a colored linen suit. Where the suit is not much soiled two will be enough. The stiffening water must be colored just as was that in which the washing and rinsing was done."

"After wringing in the cotton sheet care must be taken in hanging both coats and skirts for the drying process.
Fresh air for colored linen and sun for the white—that is the ideal drying process. House drying never gives the satisfaction that a good laundress wants for her work. Steam drying should be a last resort. It injures the texture of the goods and leaves the colors less brilliant."

"The figures on which suits get their final shaping are the kind used by good dressmakers and tailors. I have all sizes and covered so that the suits get as nearly as possible the shape of their owners. I keep the figures arrayed in fresh petticoats and shirt waists, and when the freshly washed suits are on them I'm not ashamed for any one to walk into my shaping rooms. Each suit is taken from the
ment. Great care is taken to see that every part of the suit is perfectly dry."

HOW TO MAKE CANNA BEDS.

Do Not Plant For Many Varieties or Colors.

As cannas are subtropical plants they thrive only in warm weather and should be planted only when the season is well advanced. May 20 to June 15 is best for the territory between latitudes 40 and 45. The plants are deep rooted, therefore the bed should be dug deep.
It also is important to provide plenty of plant food. Three inches of well rotted manure spaded into the soil is not too much. Do not elevate the center of the bed, but leave level so water will not run off.

If the bed is to contain several varieties of cannas much care should be given to the selection of the varieties.
If the bed is to be viewed from all sides put the taller varieties in the center and use the shorter kinds for the border rows. Your florist can give advice about the varieties best suited for the purpose.

Do not plant too many varieties. Unless it is an exceptionally large bed two or three will be better than more. For small beds a dozen to eighteen plants are enough. It is good taste to use some other plant for a border. If tall growing cannas are used the fountain grass is unsurpassed, and for dwarf kinds such plants as coleus, dwarf salvias and dusty miller are serviceable.

How to Walk Correctly.

To attain correct carriage one must walk erectly, and to achieve this there is nothing better than trying to walk with a book or similar article on the head.

This is sure to keep one from developing the swaying of the body more to the one side than the other.
Stays that force the opposite of this rule should be discarded and destroyed, for they are not fit to wear. If they work against the correctness of the carriage they are really a menace to the health.

Throw out your chest. Better to have people say that you are so straight you appear to be falling over backward than to be round shouldered in appearance, if not in fact.

How to Make Sash Curtains.

A most attractive sash curtain may be made of linen, but it must be of rather a sheer quality. Japanese grass cloth or Bohemian linen is best to use.
If the eyellet embroidery is combined with either fillet or cluny insertion the effect will be very handsome.
The sides and bottom may have a very narrow edging of the lace or they may be French hemmed and the bottom trimmed with a tassel edging.

How to Keep Water Cold.

To keep ice water cold a long time with little ice when weather is hot try this: Take a pitcher of ice and water and set in middle of a newspaper.
Gather the four corners at the top, bring the edges together with a strong rubber band and exclude the air. It will keep all night with little melting of the ice.

The most Economical way to Buy Every-day Foods

COMPARE foods for the nourishment they give. It is the nutrition or "energy" in a food that builds up the body.

Ten cents' worth of food rich in "energy" supplies the system with more strength than fifty cents' worth of another kind of food.

Karo syrup is the fine ex-ample to-day of a food that costs little and is full of nu-trition.

In proportion to cost, Karo gives three and four times the "energy" of many every-day foods.

People all over the country are paying more attention to food values.
They are eating more Karo than ever—on bread, griddle cakes, waffles, hot biscuit. 70,000,000 cans sold in 1911.

Karo gets its nutritive quality from corn and is rich in one of the wholesome elements you get in corn bread, corn muffins, hominy, Indian pudding. Karo is made from the hard, ripe kernels of the best corn grown.

Karo is as delicious as honey—as wholesome as butter—yet costs you much less than either.

Wherever sweetening is needed in cooking you'll find Karo useful.

Why not try Karo to-day? Your grocer has two kinds—Karo Crystal White, Karo Cane Flavor. You can readily tell the Karo label on the sealed cans.

Anna Held's Opinion of An Automobile

Seattle, Washington. Gentlemen:

I cannot help but say that the big, luxurious Oakland car that took me so easily and com- fortably around your beautiful boulevard is the easiest riding American built car I have seen. Of course, my foreign machines cost me thousands of dollars, but this is the first American built car that I ever thought their equal.

Respectfully yours, Anna Held.

You will note by Miss Held's letter that she has had experience with foreign built cars which cost her thousands of dollars. You will also note carefully that the Oakland, the first American built car that she ever thought the equal of the high priced foreign made cars. This is one of the best tributes that has ever been paid the Oakland, and, coming as it does from a woman who is in a position to judge of the comparative merits of high priced cars and medium cars, it should carry great weight.

HOW TO PUT AWAY FURS.

Simple Method, For Safely Storing Garments During Summer.

It is often declared that the storing of valuable furs at home is a false economy, but it is one which the woman who possesses valuable furs seldom attempts to practice. The very fact of her being able to buy such things argues that when warm weather comes along the problem of storage is promptly solved by her maid going to the telephone and ringing up a good firm of furriers with instructions to call for madam's beautiful peltry next morning. The furs go away, are cleaned and lie in an arctic atmosphere until October comes nipping and madam wants them again.

But the average woman, with her one fur coat or her mink and stole, seldom wishes to involve the expense entailed by such a proceeding, and it is not entirely necessary that she should.

Cleaning is the first matter to be considered when putting away furs. A sunny, breezy day should be chosen for the task, and each article beaten out of doors with a light cane beater and left for some hours to become thoroughly aired. Notice whether any dust flies from the fur during the beating, as this is a sure sign that the moths have been there already.

The coarser sorts of fur, such as are used for heavy motor coats, will stand a firm brushing with a fairly hard brush, but a softer brush must be used for the more delicate skins, which should also be brushed after their beating.

Bran which has been beaten in the oven and then rubbed into the fur is an excellent cleansing medium. Powdered magnesia may be used in the same way for white furs. After another shaking the furs are ready to be put away.

A stout chest lined with tarred paper is an excellent storing place. Each garment should be wrapped in newspaper—moths dislike the odor of the ink—and whatever moth preventive the owner uses should be liberally applied.

Campfire and red pepper are not in the high favor they enjoyed in our mothers' days. It is not now considered necessary to have anything so disagreeable about one's belongings, and there is a revival of the old world custom of using cloves and cinnamon, tonquin beans andorris root. Little muslin bags of cedar wood shavings distributed among the furs are an excellent moth preventive.

If you have no suitable chest in which to store your furs a good plan is to make bags of strong unbleached linen for each article. Make them so that they draw up securely at the top, and stitch sachets containing your moth and scent sachets to their insides. These bags may hang in a wardrobe, where they will be convenient for the occasional overhauling which the most carefully put away furs should have once or twice during the summer.

How to Keep Roses Fresh.

Proper care of cut flowers will double their life of life. Even household roses, namely the shortest lived of blossoms, can be made to retain their beauty and fragrance for two weeks if one will take the trouble to boil the stems.

To do this set a pan of hot water on the stove and when the water begins to boil place the stems of the flowers in the water to the depth of one inch. Hold the flowers carefully to prevent their touching the sides or bottom of the pan. Allow them to boil fifteen or twenty minutes. Remove the flowers and clip off the portions of the stems that were in the water. They are then ready to be arranged in the vase or bowl.

Many persons have poor success in keeping cut flowers because they do not put fresh water into flower vases every day. The stems of the flowers should be clipped every day to enable them to take up more water. Never leave cut flowers in a warm room overnight. Set them in a cool place.

How to Bake Cabbage.

Cut up and boil quantity of cabbage desired in salted water. When cooked till soft, though not boiled quite enough to eat, drain off water. Butter a baking dish, cut up cabbage quite fine, turn into dish, add salt and pepper to taste and small bits of butter. Pour over sweet milk till nearly covered. Bake in moderate oven about three-quarters of an hour. A good way to use up boiled cabbage is to try out four or five slices of fat bacon. Remove bacon and put cabbage into pan and brown, draining off some of the fat if too greasy. Serve on a platter garnished with the bacon. This is called dressed cabbage.

How to Keep Watermelon Fresh.

"It will be flat and stale by tomorrow," they said of the perfectly good half watermelon that was left. But it wasn't," says a contributor in Good Housekeeping. "For I melted a little paraffin in a jelly cake pan, dipped the cut end into it and put the melon into the cellar. Two days later, when the watermelon was cut, it was as fresh and had as good flavor as if it had been kept in its own green shell."

How to Use Feather Mounts.

The vogue for feather mounts still continues, and certainly these madcap hat trimmings are a veritable "hoon and blessing" to the home milliner. Sew one (or, if you are lazy or busy, pin it) on a half worn hat and you will find yourself the proud possessor of quite an elegant chapman.

How to Cut Up Pumpkin.

You who find it difficult to cut up a tough skinned pumpkin will find the kitchen or woodhouse saw the most convenient article for the purpose as it is superior to the sharpest knife and far less dangerous.

BORROWING A BEAR

One Way of Winning a Wife.

By C. B. LEWIS.

Joe Whitman, cowboy, rode up to the Circle ranch house one day to see old Colonel Meecham about some lost cattle, and ten minutes later he had lost his heart to Miss Rose, the colonel's daughter, who was then a girl of nineteen and her father's housekeeper.

Circle ranch had been a great ranch in its day, but the colonel had met with all sorts of bad luck and couldn't pay his debts. He had a few cattle and one cowboy left, while a colored woman assisted Rose about the housework.

Rose Meecham had not been educated in the east. She had been born in the ranch house and sent to a school not a hundred miles away, and her environments had been of the plainest. As the adoring father said of her more than once after his wife died:

"Rose is good looking and honest hearted and will make some man a good wife. There's nothing of the coquette or flirt about her. She doesn't know what a flirtation means. She's just a plain girl, with her heart set on doing all she can for her old daddy."

That was the colonel's way of putting it, and it simply shows how little the average father knows of the average daughter. Miss Rose was good looking and honest hearted, but she would flirt with a cross eyed cowboy. Any other girl in her situation would have done the same thing. There wasn't another girl for fifteen miles around, while there were about fifty cowboys within that distance, and, besides, there was the fort only five miles away and soldiers passing on the road every day.

Joe Whitman may have been above the average cowboy in looks and education. Miss Rose had decided within five minutes that she liked him. With in another five she was smiling so sweetly and talking so nicely that she had Joe stammering out his words.

That was the beginning of things. He had driven home a bunch of the colonel's cattle that he had cut out of his herd, and, though he wanted to linger at the ranch and talk about the price of beef on the hoof, the drop in hides and the dry summer, he wasn't equal to the occasion and was almost backed off his pony in taking his leave. Joe rallied when he got back to his cattle and began to lay plans, and from that day on it was a cold day when he did not bring in some of the colonel's stray stock.

It was a puzzle to the old gentleman why his cattle should wander six or seven miles after pasture when they had better at home, but it was no mystery to Miss Rose. Every time a bunch of the missing cattle came back Joe had to stop to explain and to call for a drink of water and to hang around for a good half hour, and that girl, who didn't know what a flirtation meant, laughed to herself after he had departed.

Jim Taylor, the lone cowboy in the colonel's employ, was past forty, had a wife somewhere in the east and was out of the running, but he was no wooden head. When those lost cattle were driven up he would go to the colonel and declare that somebody was driving them off that he might have the privilege of driving them back again and that if Miss Rose were his daughter he would put his foot down. Then the colonel would look up in an innocent way and exclaim:

"Lord love us, but you don't think Rosa drives off our cattle and then drives them back again?"

"No, I don't, colonel, but don't it strike you that Joe Whitman is coming here mighty often?"

"Is he? Well, he has to bring back the strays, you know, and it is very kind of him indeed. I don't always see him, but I hope that Rosa returns my thanks in a proper way."

Joe was working the cattle business for all it was worth and calling at the Circle ranch between times with oranges and boxes of candy sent to him from Denver, when a rival suddenly entered the field.

Sergeant Smith, from the fort, came along one day with a squad of men and stopped at the house to make some inquiries. The sergeant was a good looking man. He had a taking way with him. A flirtation was started almost at once, and when he took up his line of march again he promised himself the pleasure of another call.

Three days later he rode out to the ranch and began to make love in earnest. He had served Uncle Sam for twelve years, saved up $200 and was looking for a wife. While he continued to be a soldier she could have a place as one of the landresses in Company G.

Before the sergeant got away Joe Whitman came riding up. The two men instinctively recognized each other as rivals and glared and muttered, but there was no bloodshed. When the son of Mars was gone there was a quarrel between the two left. Joe's jealousy made it, although when asked what rights he had he would not define them. He hinted that he would bring back no more lost cattle and was told not to put himself out in future, and he called Miss Rose a heartless flirt and rode away with his broncho's heels in the air.

It is just as easy for a man to make a fool of himself on the plains of the west as at Newport or Saratoga. When Joe had cooled down he admitted that he was in the wrong, but it required more moral courage than he possessed to ride over and make a confession. In this emergency he haunted the spring until he found out from Martin, the colored woman, that on a certain day and date Miss Rose and the sergeant were to take a two mile walk to a certain limestone cave on the banks of the river.

Every man has a friend somewhere if he will only hunt him up. After thinking things over Joe decided to go to old man Barnes, who kept a saloon, eating house and a sort of menagerie in town, and when his case had been stated the old man replied:

"Easiest thing in the world, my boy. You want to run that sergeant off the ranch and make a hero of yourself at the same time?"

"But he don't look like a feller who could be run," was protested.

"Make no mistake, my boy. You can run his coat tails out straight if only you go about it right."

"But how can I make a hero of myself?"

"That's a part of the game. Now listen to me."

Three days later the sergeant rode up to the ranch with his chest puffed out and a complacent look on his face. He felt that he was a winner. He was going to honor the ranchman's daughter by taking her into Uncle Sam's service.

His welcome wasn't quite as genial as it might have been, as Miss Rose was beginning to feel conscience stricken about Joe Whitman. She had found on mature consideration that she liked Joe very much, and when a girl will admit that and be sorry that she flirted with another man at the same time she is very near the point of loving.

The horse was left at the stables, and the pair started for the cave on foot. On the way the sergeant got ready to propose, but a rattlesnake created a diversion. He made ready a second time, but a stray steer had to be eluded away, and so the river was reached without a recruit being added to the army.

The cave contained three rooms and was accounted a wonder. A torch that had been prepared was lighted, and the couple entered the dark mouth, but had hardly reached the center of the first room when they were seized by such a growling and clawing and roaring as held them spellbound for a moment. Then as a monster bear came rushing at them from one of the inner rooms the doughty sergeant broke for daylight and fled at his best pace. The calls of the girl were unheeded. He hadn't served twelve years in the army to become bear's meat. He wanted a wife and Company G wanted a second landress, but he would try to find the woman in town. He covered the mile to the house without a break and then mounted his faithful steed and set off for the fort. He even forgot to leave best wishes behind.

Meanwhile Miss Rose had stumbled and fallen and flailed away. It was as good a chance as a bear ever had, but this particular animal failed to take advantage of the occasion.

In the first place, he was muzzled, and, in the next, Joe Whitman was hanging on to the end of a long rope fastened to his collar. When he had fulfilled his mission he was tied up, and Joe went out and shouldered the still unconscious girl and had borne her nearly home when she revived.

As she opened her eyes and wondered how she had tasted to the bear Joe pointed out the sergeant riding away. He also displayed his bloody hunting knife.

"Oh, Joe, but the bear—the bear!" gasped the girl on his arm.

"I came along just in time to kill it. Thank heaven, you are not hurt. Here you are at home. I am glad I was of service to you, but I can't come in. After what was said the other day?"

"You will come in, of course. There may be another bear around."

There wasn't, but during the next hour Joe had a talk with the colonel and both of them shook hands at the end of it and said they were glad.

That night when Joe led the bear back to the town and his cake the owner grudgingly queried:

"Well, did it work?"

"Beautifully."

"Then hand over the ten. When you want a second wife come to me and we will put up some other job to get her."

The Finger System.

From his easy chair Mr. Compton watched his wife putting on a pair of tan gloves. "Aren't they too large for you?" he asked lazily.

"Oh, no, not for shopping gloves," said Mrs. Compton, and with her fingers on the table she ran a scale up and down several times. "I have to be able to do that, you see," she explained.

"Do finger exercises? What for?" asked Mr. Compton.

"Those aren't finger exercises," Mrs. Compton's color deepened as, taking off the gloves, she began to smooth and stretch the fingers. "These are—why, they're calculations, Henry. Don't you see, if I start downtown with $10 and go to the silk counter and find two lovely remnants, one for $3 and one for $1.50, I want to reckon up at once, underneath the counter, how much they'll come to and how much I'll have left. And last week I missed a great bargain because I had on some tight gloves and I couldn't reckon. I hadn't expected to go to the sale."

"Ah," said Mr. Compton. "Why not ask the clerk to reckon it for you?"

"Henry," cried his wife, "at a bargain counter! The clerk! Why, nobody but a man would ever think of such a thing for a minute!"—Youth's Companion.

HOW TO ECONOMIZE.

Household Expenditures That May Be Cut Out.

Woman's life is made up of little things, and this is especially true as regards the management and spending of small sums of money. The pennies slip away unnoticed until they are added up at the week's or month's end, to show an alarming and astonishing total.

The only way to remedy this is to plan out a thorough system of household expenditure and adhere to it in spite of all temptation to "launch out" in one direction or another or indulge in pet little unnecessary extravagances.

It depends on the manner of living whether you should buy in large or small quantities, also upon the size of the family and capacity for storage. It therefore need not be a matter for regret if you find it difficult to manage purchasing in quantities, for the second method may suit your case best.

Work out some system between the "hand to mouth" style of living and the purchase of large amounts. Buy your groceries, for instance, with the intention of making them last for a whole week, and see that they do so.

Marketing is an art and deserves thorough study. Watch prices and buy what is cheap and in season. When a certain fish or fruit is being sold in quantities for low prices make the most of the opportunity, even if it means rearranging all your plans for the week's meals. Above all, pay cash.

If you must buy very little buy only the best and use every scrap of it. You will find it comes cheaper than using goods of an apparently lower price, where half cannot be eaten.

Remember that hardly anything need be thrown away. It is the little wastes that lead to trouble. It is often astonishing to find that poor people think nothing of throwing away good pieces of food that a good housekeeper, even one with plenty of money, would be furious to find wasted in her own household.

The smallest scraps of meat, vegetables, fish, bread, all serve for soup, puddings, etc., and even the bones should be boiled down for stock until all the goodness is extracted.

It is best to divide your housekeeping money to cover the necessary expenditures and then live strictly within it. This can be done no matter how little money you have once the proper standard of living is discovered, as clever managers among the very poorest of women have proved again and again.

A man said recently that if his business were run as carefully as his home he would be bankrupt tomorrow, and he said this jestingly, not in complaint.

Housekeeping, properly understood, is just as important and just as interesting as managing any business.

How to Clean White Shoes.

Already white shoes are being worn outdoors, and if the wearer has been on the street very long she has a pair of very badly soiled shoes when she at last reaches home.

Sometimes one happens to be out of the ready made preparation and here are a few things one may use on a pinch: French chalk is good and will often remove the spots when it is used as soon as the shoes are removed. Pipe clay made into soft paste with water and applied as a paint, left until dry and then brushed off will clean spots. If you have a tree for the shoes fit them on the tree and wash with a soap suds containing a tablespoonful of ammonia to each quart. Wash with a brush and rinse with clean water and place in the sun to dry. For white suede or kid shoes try gasoline.

How to Keep Butter Cool.

A convenient and easy way to keep butter cool is by applying the principle of cooling by evaporation as used in the wet bulb of the wet and dry bulb hygrometer. The butter is placed in a closed receptacle (butter dish with lid), and after this has been placed in a soup plate containing water a wet cloth is put over the dish with its ends in the water.

Evaporation goes on at the surface of the cloth, and more water is supplied to the cloth from the plate below. This keeps the cloth and dish inside at a few degrees below the atmospheric temperature, and by this means butter can be kept firm in the hottest days.

How to Care For Books.

Never drop them upon the floor. Never turn leaves with your thumb. Never lean or rest upon an open book. Never turn down the corners of leaves. Never touch a book with soiled or damp hands. Place the large book upon a table before opening it. Never use a pencil, tablet or anything else that is bulky for a book-mark.

How to Keep Carpet Clean.

This is a useful method to keep the carpet beneath the bed free from dust and dirt. Take some unbleached cloth the size of the bed and bind it neatly. Lay this on the floor and fasten securely at each corner with pins or tape tied to feet of bed. Its removal each day for shaking purposes is a simple matter.

How to Relieve Eye Strain.

When the eyes ache relieve them by closing the lids five or ten minutes. If they have a burning sensation bathe them with hot water to which a dash of witch hazel has been added. If the whites are yellow and the pupils dilated strict attention should be paid to diet.

CORN IS KING

AND MORGAN COUNTY IS HIS CAPITOL.

He is at home here. His subjects understand him and like him. He gives them every year full and satisfactory returns for all they do for him. Morgan county land costs money, but it is worth it. Land elsewhere can be bought cheaper, but it is worth less, and you never know when it is going to fail you. Morgan county crops never fail.

For sixteen years we have talked this and nothing but this: Stay with the dirt you know. Keep your farm; or, if it is too small for you, buy a larger one that you know all about.

We can sell you the farm, and we can get you all the money you need to pay for it—home money—Morgan county money—money that has been made, grown if you please, in Morgan county dirt, and that is not afraid to go back into it.

We have confidence in Morgan county land, and the money-owners of Morgan county have confidence in us, and for sixteen years the combination has been working well. We have always had the money to lend, and our money clients have never lost a dollar nor had to foreclose a mortgage of a farm.

"COW PASTURE POOL"

The Name Saved "Private" Allen's Reputation.
"Private" John Allen is out of the political game, and maybe that accounts for the fact that, coming to Washington on a train recently, he ran into John Sharp Williams for the first time in a year. It has been some time since the private was a member of the house, and for the last congress Senator Ellet Williams has been busy developing the type of mind after his years of service as house minority leader.

Allen has a place in Tupelo, the town which his wit has made famous, while Williams' acres are spread across a portion of the rich delta of Mississippi, so it came about naturally that the two most famous sons of the Bayou State at present alive should talk agriculture.

"Been farming, Sharp?" asked Allen. "Some, John," rejoined Williams, "and let me tell you, John, that my land in the delta is the finest land in the world. I drop a seed of cotton in the morning and by night it has attained such majesty and maturity that bull weevils as far off as Texas have heard of it."

"I've some good land around Tupelo," said Allen. "By the way, Sharp, the place, Tupelo. It is?"

"For forty years," interrupted Williams, "and I'm not sure that it isn't fifty. I sat in the house and heard you boast of Tupelo, a place, John, that only my desire to protect a colleague kept me from exposing as the land's end of civilization, the flimsy terra of hope."

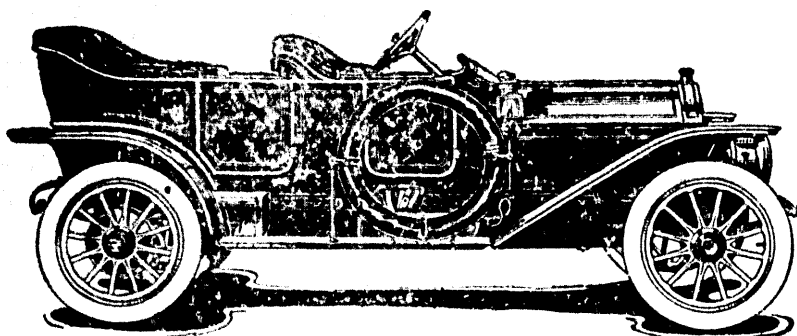

"No finer city exists," said Allen warmly, "and so secure are the claims of Tupelo that I will pass to another topic. What do you do, Sharp, besides farm?"

"Oh, I write a little, and I think a little and talk." "A great deal. That's interesting, but natural. Now, Sharp, I play golf."

"The brows of the senator elect raised; his eyes took on an expression of disappointment and sorrow. "You—play golf, John?" he protested. "You play golf, do you? How do you expect our party to keep the farmer vote in Mississippi?"

"That's all right," assured Private Allen. "I was in

Strength and Endurance

Inter-state Motor Cars are well termed "bull dogs" for strength and endurance. They represent the best ideas in auto building which years of experience have developed. Users of Inter-state cars can testify that speed and service are both in these cars, which after years of usage have become famous as "no trouble" cars.

When you start out with an Inter-state you know you are "coming back" and it's a nice safe feeling to have. We will be glad to demonstrate the good points of "The Inter-state."

POINTERS FOR POULTRY RAISERS.

Geese live longer than do any of our domestic poultry. Have you "robber" hens? An improved trap nest will arrest them. Leave it to the old hen to pick out the best nest to lay in. She can do it better than you can.

Two sprinklings a week with kerosene oil should keep the house free from insect pests. But be thorough. In heavy-soll localities, games are apt to attack young chicks, especially when quartered on damp, heavy ground. In light, sandy soils this disease is practically unknown.

As the days become warmer, shade must be provided in the runs. Where there are no trees to furnish this, shady nooks can be constructed which will give the youngsters a chance to get away from the direct rays of the hot sun. This matter must be attended to or the chicks will meet with a setback, and there will be more or less prostrations.

Overfeeding must be avoided, as must also underfeeding. Either extreme will stunt the growth of the young stock. The prices realized for table eggs are not so tempting now, as they have dropped considerably. It is a good business move to turn those cheap eggs into table poultry.

Get the screens over the windows now, so that intruders will not disturb your favorites while they are asleep at night.

Make it your business to drop the little door, where the hens go into the house, the last thing at night; and then, don't forget it in the morning.

Have you a bit of lettuce for the biddies now? It is time for them and makes them lay better.

It isn't a waste to crumb up bread fine and feed it to the young chicks. You will get your money back with food interest.

It is equally as bad to overfeed as it is to underfeed poultry. There should be regular hours for feeding, and never a feast today and a famine tomorrow be allowed.

Have the coops large and roomy. This gives the hen space to move about and be comfortable. She is also less liable to step on the chicks, as might be the case if the coop is small.

A good dust bath does more to keep the chickens free from lice than does the occasional dosing with louse powder, and for this reason should always be a part of the poultry fixtures. Clean dry dust must be used.

My method for keeping lice from troubling the poultry at night, is to suspend the roosting poles by wires from the rafters of the house. If the poles are smooth the lice will not remain on them if they are there at all.

Turkey hens are profitable until five years old, but it is a good plan to change the gobblers every year. It requires twenty-eight days to hatch a turkey egg, and seven eggs are considered a setting. The nests should be on ground.

Where corn cobs stand on posts about two feet from the ground, as so many of them do, and run east and west, by nailing boards to the posts on the north, east and west sides, leaving the south side open, good scratching sheds for poultry can be made. Any old rough lumber will do. Nail a six-inch board on the south side of the bottom to keep the litter under the building.

In one of the suburban towns, a manager of the Standard Oil interests has solved the problem of making hens lay at summer speed during winter prices. When eggs are commanding sixty cents per dozen he got from fifty to sixty eggs daily. This was his method: He ran an electric wire from his residence to the hen house, leaving a sixteen candle power light on until about eight o'clock at night. The hens busily worked and scratched as usual until the current was turned off, when they went to roost. At 5:30 A. M. he reached from his bed and pressed the button; the hens woke up and promptly got on their job again. He has proved to his own satisfaction that it is excessive that the hens need to make them lay in the winter time. M.N.H.

DR. STACKHOUSE AT FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

Dr. W. T. Stackhouse, general secretary of the Baptist Laymen's Missionary movement, has been secured for an address at the First Baptist church next Sunday morning. Dr. Stackhouse was with great difficulty persuaded from a great work in Canada, to come to the United States and assume the leadership of the Baptist Laymen of the North and West. He is said by some to bear strong resemblances to Lincoln in physical stature, and has made a distinct and lasting impression as a public speaker, both in state and national conventions. It is indeed fortunate to be able to secure such a speaker for a regular service and the men of Jacksonville cannot afford to miss this opportunity. While Dr. Stackhouse is a member of the Baptist church, and is to speak at a service in his own denomination, yet his message will be calculated to bring vision and uplift to all Christian men and a cordial invitation is extended to the men of the city to hear him.

HOW TO GROW VEGETABLES.

Seeds Should Never Be Sown Just After a Rainstorm.

Just after a rain is a poor time to sow seeds. It is better to wait until the ground can be raked or harrowed easily. When transplanting is to be done, first wet the ground thoroughly. Then it will be possible to take up a good ball of earth with the plant, and the roots will not suffer.

Corn and melons should not be cultivated deeply. The roots grow near the surface, and merely stirring the soil sufficiently to create a dust mulch is all the plants require.

It is important to have the garden tools sharp. Some people never think of sharpening the blade of a hoe, but it is altogether worth while.

Squashes keep best if allowed to remain on the vines as long as possible before the season of hard frosts. Then they get thoroughly ripened and the shell well hardened.

Poultry manure is a good dressing for the vegetable garden if scattered over the ground in the spring and cultivated in. It is particularly good for forcing the growth of onions.

Seeds of beets, parsnips and carrots germinate slowly. Often weeds come up thickly before the plants appear, but the gardener is afraid to cultivate. A few radish seeds sown with the others will obviate this difficulty by marking the rows within a few days.

Some gardeners greatly improve their lettuce, Swiss chard and spinach by growing them under a canopy of cheesecloth held about five feet above the ground by stakes or a light frame.

An excellent way to economize labor in watering plants is to sink a tomato can into the ground at the base of each plant, having first punched the bottom full of holes. The water poured into the can will reach the roots directly and not be wasted. Weak manure water may be given this way to excellent advantage if the plants need feeding.

Generally speaking, the depth to plant should be four times the diameter of the seeds.

HOW TO KEEP BEDROOM COOL.

Window Boxes Filled With Flowers Do the Trick.

People who cannot afford the country and mountains during the dog days are often vexed by little troubles with temperature in the sleeping rooms. Electric fans will do a good deal, but one cannot have them all over the house. Awnings help, and so does the cool white wicker furniture, but to have truly pleasant and airy sleeping quarters with imitation whiffs of country air one must resort to horticulture in window boxes and all kinds of fresh water plants.

A window box overrun with bright green creepers and redolent flowers will not only improve the prospect from your bedroom window, but to the atmosphere as well. Living plants absorb heat and poisonous gases, and the aroma of certain flowers has a salutary influence. Flowers of a heavy, cloying perfume should be avoided, however, as they stimulate rather than soothe the senses that ought to be composed in sleep.

But with a general array of foliage and flowers on the window and balcony you may get a taste of the country in spite of the dusty thoroughfare and leafless alley below. Especially when you vote for the other alterations—such as bare or scantily covered floors, willow furniture and awnings—summer life in the city may appeal to you. Your bedroom may be as cool and breezy as a fresh air camp.

A running faucet or a bowl or bottle of ice water on your table at night will lower the temperature at least five degrees. If your room has fairly large and well screened windows with a transom opposite you can provide for a free circulation of air even on hot and sultry nights. If you sprinkle your window boxes copiously it will have the same cooling effect on the surrounding air as a summer shower.

How to Remove Grass Stains.

The problem of removing grass stains from linen had confronted me a long time, said a housekeeper recently. We were invited to spend the day in the country. On arriving home I found my children's dresses covered with green grass stains. I feared they were ruined. The next morning I scalded them with boiling water, all to no purpose. Then I laundered them with white soap and rinsed; the stains seemed more vivid. In despair I laid them on the lawn in a hot sun all day. At night I brought them in. Not a trace of stain remained. I have tried it successfully on cambric and percale many times since.

How to Clean Hats.

The easiest way to keep the straw hats of the family as good as new is to buy 5 cents' worth of oxalic acid, a clean, soft cloth and a toothbrush. Dissolve the acid, take the hat in the left hand, dip the brush in the acid, rub a small piece at a time and then rinse off with water and wipe dry. Work rapidly, holding the hat so the acid and water will run off. With care it can be done without taking off the band and accomplished in a few minutes. It is best to work near a faucet.

How to Serve Demi-tasse.

The very latest wrinkle in coffee serving is to pass rock candy broken in tiny bits instead of the customary lump sugar. The tiny coffee cups so much in vogue now in their silver holders are entirely too small to use even a half lump of sugar. So the rock candy not only is advantageous, but looks very pretty heaped in a little silver or glass sugar bowl.

Appointments for Sabbath, April 28:

Sabbath school, 10 a. m. Subject: Mt. 5:1-12. The Beatitudes. We should all attend the Bible school—old and young.

Preaching service, 11 a. m. Subject: The last sermon in a series of three on Heaven—Heaven the Reward. All in the neighborhood who expect to reach heaven some day are urged to be present.

What a glorious and blessed home God has provided for his people of every nationality, of every color and every clime. Catholic and Protestant will hold sweet communion together here. There will be no classes. God will love all and all will love God, and will love one another. Those of humble and contrite heart will be happy there. Everyone will have the same motives for rejoicing the hearty and superior merit and inspiring sympathy of Jesus. How lovely his eyes will shine, how sweet his voice will sound, and how restful everything will be.

It will seem strange at first to be in a blessed home. It may seem like a dream, but it will be a reality. And it will be brighter and better than anyone has ever imagined. "Eye hath not seen, nor heard, neither hath it entered into the heart of man to conceive the things which God hath prepared for that love him."

The Women's Missionary society for April will occur Tuesday, April 24, at the home of Miss Eleanor I. Moore. Subject, India. Those on the program are Mrs. Negus, Mrs. Arnold and Mrs. Cunningham. See printed program.

The farewell sermon will occur Sabbath, May 5, fair weather or foul. As a pastorate we shall now come to a juncture. The paths of pastor and people will then diverge. But the same Good Shepherd will lead us both, we trust, on to our Father's House.

Norbury W. Thornton, Pastor.

SLEEPS WELL AT NIGHT.

If you want to know how a man feels who has allowed his health to break down, and then finds a way of regaining it, just read this letter from Joseph J. Fagan, of New York City.

"Nearly all last winter I was in poor health owing to a general run-down condition. I had very little appetite and did not sleep well. In March I began to take your delicious cod liver and iron preparation Vinol, and soon noticed a great improvement in my health. My appetite returned, and I can now enjoy my meals and get good rest at night. I have not felt better for years than I have since taking Vinol." Mr. Fagan did not risk a cent to get well for his money would have been paid back if Vinol had not helped him.

We don't see how any person in poor health, weak, pale, nervous or unable to sleep can hesitate a moment about beginning the use of Vinol. We have known Vinol to make so many people healthy and strong again that we recommend it to you with the greatest confidence. Leo P. Alcott, east side square.

The White Sewing Machine

Runs Light and Sews Right

The Time for Spring Sewing Is Here
How is Your Sewing Machine?

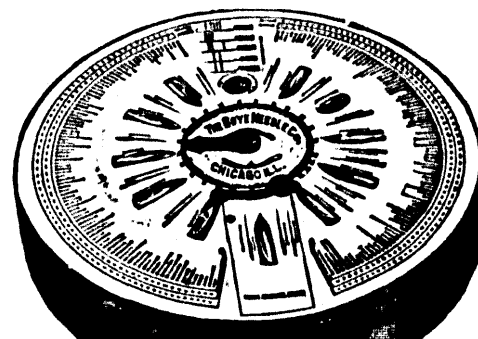

When sewing time comes on you are apt to have your hands full—so full in fact that you do not want interruption of any sort. You are not looking for any break-downs, and it is easy to imagine the state of your feelings when they occur.

But how are you going to avoid them? Let us tell you—buy a high grade WHITE. In buying the WHITE we give you the advantage of choosing from two movements—vibrating or rotary shuttle. The rotary shuttle has the two-in-one stitching feature; in other words, it does lock or chain stitching at the will of the operator. In a sense it is two machines in one. Out of the many twentieth century improvements of the WHITE, such as ball bearings, pinch tension, tension releaser, etc., etc., we call attention to the most striking one, and one that is found on no other machine—the WHITE TENSION INDICATOR. It is the essence of simplicity. It shows the exact state of the tension at a glance. The tension can be changed to a desired point on the Indicator, tightened or loosened by a simple twist of the wrist.

We have a special operator here all the time and will be glad to show you the many advantages of the WHITE. We have sold hundreds of them in and around Jacksonville, that are proving a source of satisfaction and delight to the owner and we want to place one in every home in this county.

NEEDLES, BELTS, BEST OF OIL, OIL CANS

and all extras for machines at lowest prices.

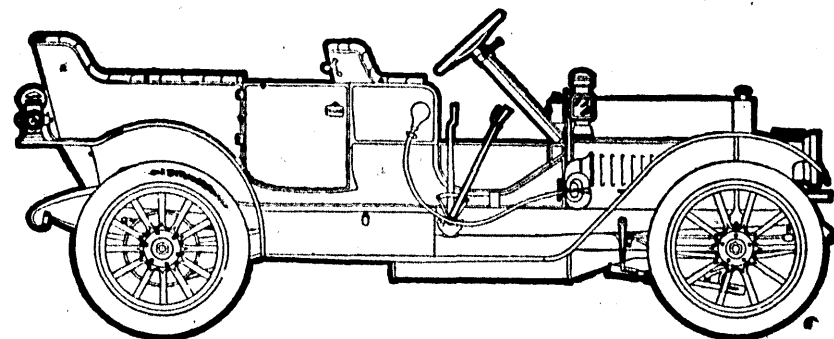

Needles, Shuttles and Bobbins for use in All Makes of Sewing Machines.

White Machine from $25 and Up, Others from $12 to $20

We do not bore you with house to house canvassing, that costs lots of money. We sell you machines at bottom prices, giving you the greatest possible value for your money.
